

Coupling system for non abrasives and non corrosives

Built-in coupling system

Built-in coupling system

Steel fittings are built-in and vulcanised into the hose body during manufacture, which forms an integral part of the assembly. The fitting is chemically bonded and mechanically locked into position with fully embedded wire between cope rings. Built-in fittings are designed for heavy-duty use and medium to high-pressure applications.